

Classes Poll In Faculty Hall Friday

Thirty-three Candidates Filed
For Thirteen Offices. Interest High, Expect Large Vote.

TIETSORT IN CHARGE

Class officers will be chosen at an all-University election in the men's faculty building today between the hours of 10 and 2 o'clock. Thirty-three candidates have filed for the thirteen offices that are open.

Much interest has been evidenced in the election by students and a heavy vote is expected by Woodrow Tietfort, president of the Student Council, who is in charge of the poll. Thirty-one of the candidates are Greeks.

The list of candidates as approved by the Student Council at a meeting in Joslyn hall Wednesday evening follows:

Seniors: President, Mary Rigg, Duane Butler, and Carleton Williams; vice-president, Elleen Christensen and Robin Meyer; secretary, Esther Blackstone and Lorraine Larson; treasurer, Bob Brown and Paul Brawner.

Yearling 11 Ties Tarkio Reserves

Timer's Gun Prevents Victory
For Cardinals

BY MACY BAUM

With a timer's gun as their chief weapon of defense, the Tarkio College reserves held the Omaha University freshmen to a 6-6 tie on the Missouri grid last Saturday.

Coach Leon Fouts' yearlings opened the scoring in the first quarter when they marched down the field and crossed the goal on a short pass from Holland to Brown. The same combination was tried for the extra point but failed.

The Tarkio team tied the count a few minutes later by the same method, also using the aerial path for their touchdown, but failing to convert the try for point.

The young Cardinals' next scoring threat was stopped short by the ending of the half after they had gained a first down on the Tarkio 10-yard line. They came back in the second half and rushed the Missouri squad all over the field, only to have the game end with the ball in Omaha's possession on the Tarkio one-yard stripe.

Fouts had special praise for the work of Fritchhoff at guard and Holland and Johnson in the back-field.

The Omaha lineup: Leigh and Brown, ends; Grau and Scott, tackles; Pascuale and Fritchhoff, guards; Benjamin, center; Holland, quarter; Shackelford and Novak, halves; and Johnson, full. Substitutes: Taylor, Wachal, Maris, Phillips and Vaughn.

KAPPA PLEDGE DANCE TO BE IN GYM TONIGHT

The Kappa pledges, with the aid of all the cornstalks, pumpkins, black cats and witches that are to be found in the vicinity, will show those hardy souls who are not afraid of spooks what a real Halloween dance can be like at their party in the gymnasium, from 8:30 to 12. Julian McPherson and his orchestra will furnish the music.

So come on, all you ghosts and spirits—we're staying away from mirrors and refraining from walking under ladders today—for we're out to have a high old time tonight.

Burglar Fires On Night Watchman

Sam Cornett Narrowly Escapes
Death as He Discovers Burglar in Bursar's Office.

Sam Cornett, 21, Omaha University night watchman, narrowly escaped death at two o'clock Sunday morning, when he came upon a burglar working on the safe in the bursar's office.

Stepping into the bursar's office, Cornett played the beam of light from his flashlight about the room. Observing a burglar before the safe he attempted to identify him, when a bullet whizzed by his ear and tore through the glass in the door.

Unarmed, with bullets whizzing over his head, Cornett made a hasty retreat. He left the building and phoned the police, who were unable to find the culprit.

Cornett told a Gateway reporter Wednesday that he was unafraid while the burglar was shooting at him, but after it was all over he felt nervous.

Forty-seven students, after their trip to Wayne last Friday night, now know how the "Ancient Mariner" felt when he said, "Water, water, everywhere."

'Tarzan' Fouts Rises in World, Comes Down Again; Firemen Retrieve Pigskin

By MACY BAUM

A thrilling rescue of a pigskin stranded high in the limbs of a poplar tree was effected Monday by Leon "Tarzan" Fouts, former Omaha University athlete, aided by the men and equipment of Station No. 22, Omaha Fire Department, located at 22nd and Ames avenue.

Fouts, who is now freshman football coach and also blows a whistle in a gym class in his spare time, gathered his frosh about him last Monday and spoke thusly:

"Verily, my flock, it has sore displeased me to see your weak attempts at booting this leather-covered spheroid. That is to say, your punting is lousy. So watch closely while Uncle Leon demonstrates the correct technique."

Uncle Leon Demonstrates

And Uncle Leon did—with the result that the football came to rest 50 feet in the air, entangled in the limbs and foliage of a poplar tree just outside the field. Here it rapidly adjusted itself to its environment and settled down for a long stay, completely ignor-

Grads Offer Aid in Indian Rites Contest

W. N. Halsey, School's First
Dean, Will Help Entrants in Traditions Contest.

OFFER CASH PRIZE

Professor W. N. Halsey, first dean of the University of Omaha, has offered his assistance to any students who wish to participate in the contest for a plan in which Indian customs may be adopted as traditions for the university. Mrs. Halsey, wife of the former dean, is also an authority on the Omaha and Pawnee Indians and is willing to aid any student who wishes to make an appointment.

The word "Omaha" means, in the Indian language, "against the winds and waters." Mrs. C. C. Strimple stated at a Student Council meeting that the University of Omaha has gone against the winds and waters in that it has had a struggle for growth since it was founded in 1908. Mrs. Strimple also related how the Omaha Indians, under the leadership of Big Elk, landed on Elk Hill in Bellevue, where the university was later founded. Alumni representatives have written to Carey LaFlesche, brother of Francis LaFlesche, the last chief of the Omaha Indians, for permission to use the real Indian ceremonies. If this permission cannot be obtained, similar traditions may be formed.

A time limit for the contest has not yet been set. Plans will be submitted to the Alumni association, who will present a prize of $10 for the most appropriate outline. The student body will then hold an election to vote on whether or not they will accept it as written.

Books on Indian customs can be found in the school library and in the Omaha Public Library.

ing the pleadings and beseechings of Uncle Leon and his band.

But was the redoubtable Fouts discouraged? Perish the thought! Looking his husky squad squarely in the eye, he demanded:

"Boys, are you going to let me go after that ball myself?"

The squad rose to the occasion, as might have been expected, looked Fouts squarely in the eye, and answered as one man:

"You betcha!"

Almost a Record

Happy to know that his charges were supporting him with such enthusiasm, Leon borrowed a long ladder from the nearby fire barn, propped it up against the unpopular poplar, and had soon ascended about 35 feet in the air, only 61,965 feet short of the stratosphere record set recently by the Russian balloonists, Ivan Ivanov Ivanovitch and Peter Petranov Petranovitch.

But here Leon stopped. The limbs between him and the ball were too small, or maybe he was too big; but, anyway, he stopped.

Omaha university's new sorority, Alpha Gamma Chi, was left out of this year's Student Directory, due to an oversight, according to Duane Butler, editor.

"I am editing a directory, not an annual," he said when asked about the elimination of the honorary organizations and student council lists. Financial reasons prohibited excessive listings, according to Butler.

Naval Fight At Wayne Is Draw

Card Gridders Tie With Teachers for Fourth Year; Play in Rain, Mud.

By JOE GREENSTONE

That old man, Tie-Score, got his way for the fourth consecutive year as the Omaha U. gridders and the Wayne Teachers played to a scoreless tie on the Wayne field last Friday.

The rain, which hindered the players on both teams, helped the old man considerably in achieving his purpose, for everything pointed to a Cardinal win this year.

Although Omaha made two desperate attempts to paddle the ball across the final stripe, the wet pigskin evaded the Cardinals' backs, and each time the Wildcats recovered. The first attempt came in the third quarter, when the Red Birds recovered a Teacher's fumble, and with Pearey as the skipper they reached the 10-yard line only to lose the ball on a fumble.

Loder, with the help of Hoover and Pearey, navigated the ball to the five-yard line, but on the next play he fumbled and the Wildcats recovered to stop their guests' drive.

The punting of Gast easily made him the outstanding star for the Wayne boys and closely rivaled the punts of Loder. The Wildcats did have one scoring chance, but of course they couldn't let the Omahans outfumble them, so they gave up the ball, although involuntarily.

Conference Held at Sidney, Iowa

The Observational Conference held October 17 at Sidney, Iowa, was the first in a series of programs to be held throughout the year. The Municipal University is sponsoring these events with the purpose of co-ordinating and co-operating with outside schools.

Professors who attended the Sidney conference are: Dr. L. O. Taylor, head of the education department; Dr. Sullenger, Miss Diamond, Mr. Helmstadter, and Mr. Hosman. Ralph MacDonald, tenor, sang several numbers, accompanied by Miss Browning.

A tentative program for the school year includes: A debaters' clinic at Thomas Jefferson High school, two high school conferences at Dennison, Iowa, and Blair; a soloists' clinic and perhaps a declaimers' clinic at Municipal University; a girls' play day, in charge of Miss Diamond; a track meet; and the annual high school conference in June.

Omaha Set For 2 Day Celebration

Student Body to Have Complete Charge of Homecoming
Festival This Year.

BANQUET THURSDAY NITE

Omaha University's annual homecoming, planned this year to be the largest celebration of this type ever held here, will open Thursday, November 1, and continue until late Friday with a varied program planned to attract many alumni and students.

For the first time the plans for the homecoming are being handled by the student body instead of the alumni association, and Woodrow Tietfort, student council president, expects this to bring about a student attendance at the celebration far exceeding that of other years.

The two-day festival will open Thursday evening with a homecoming banquet and dance. Students and alumni will be seated at special tables, and special tables will also be provided for bars and guests. Those buying banquet tickets will be admitted to the game for only 25 cents. Tickets go on sale today. A banner will be presented to the Greek organization having the largest number of alumni present.

Faculty Speakers at Teachers' Meeting

Three faculty members of the University of Omaha spoke at the meeting of the Nebraska State Teachers' Association Thursday and Friday, October 25 and 26.

Dr. Lyman Harris spoke before the Latin section on "The Foreign Language Teacher and the Present Day in Europe." Dr. Wm. Thompson and Dr. J. M. Earl also spoke to the teachers.

President Wm. E. Sealock presided at the high school and college divisional meeting.

General meetings were held at the Orpheum theatre. Special sectional groups convened at Central High school and Tech, as well as various of the hotels.

The theme of the association during this convention was "Childhood Passes This Way But Once."

University Women's Club to Give Tea

Mr. Ralph McDonald will sing and Miss Jean Ross will present some readings at a tea to be given by the University of Omaha Women's Club Thursday, November 1, at 2:30 p. m. in the Women's Faculty Building.

The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. C. W. Helmstadter, chairman, Mrs. Ruth Benson, Mrs. Nell Gillard, Mrs. E. A. Holt, Mrs. A. M. Johnson, Mrs. Margaret McConnell, and Mrs. L. O. Taylor.

Woodrow Tietfort, '35, and Robert Johnson, '35, in a car navigated by Troy Weerner, ex-'35, landed in a ditch near Wayne and were an hour late to the game.

TRIBAL TRADITION

The proposal last week to build a new school tradition upon the life and manners of the Red Man stirred something in our otherwise apathetic Pale Face nature. It carried us back a few years to the books we avidly consumed and recalled the exploits therein of daring Indians and their vain defense of home and hunting ground.

At home that night—Friday, to be exact—we found our scuffed bedroom slippers moccasin-like in their comfort, and our odiferous cob stoker assumed the dignity and grace and elegance of a pipe of peace. Blanketed there in our dressing gown, our musings cast us in a new imaginative role, and we visioned great things.

Here—we went musing along—is venison for pow-wowing—meat for discussion, we mean. A pow-wow is just what is needed. Gather from their distant tepees all the young bucks and maidens, the old warriors and the squaws and hold a mighty council. Let only the old chiefs with great wisdom and little hair on the head speak. Let the young warriors deck themselves in war paint and a few helmets and meet the enemy in mortal combat. And may the side with the most touchdowns win!

Send out the mighty hunters after endowments and beseech the Great Spirit that they may bring back much wampum from the Tribe of the Fat Pocket-books. Build many tepees, after first finding a portion of the great forest where the game is abundant, but never ends in a tie score; where the soil is rich, but sprinkled here and there with a sidewalk; and where may be found the waters of many springs, clear as the sparkle in a coed's eye.

Call on the Mighty Chief of the Federation at Washington, where flows the taxpayers' mazzuma like a gushing waterfall, and plead for his help. Seize as hostage Chief Big Talk, the Senator, or Chief Much Gab, the Congressman, until cometh the do-re-me to care for our people.

And when all this shall be done, and there are many young warriors at the campfire, and the clearing around the tepees rings with the sound of many happy voices, and the chiefs shall guide with wisdom and good counsel—then shall Big Chief Writing Bull, the Editor, look over his typewriter in the Happy Hunting Grounds and give you, my children, his benediction.—A. MYRA SPRINGS TO WIN
POPULAR APPROVAL

Myra Springs, white, young, wholesome, and from Missouri, will matriculate at the University of Omaha this week and she's guaranteed to have lovely, smooth lines and graceful, stream-lined curves, and to get a big hand from the college boys.

She is matriculating late with the special permish of the faculty, the austere approval of Financier Crenshaw, and the benedictions of Coach Hartman and Miss Diamond.

Myra is a sweet, pure piece of femininity with a bubbling-over personality warranted to sooth the frustrated anatomy of poor misunderstood males.

She doesn't pet, she doesn't swear, although many will probably swear by her. She doesn't smoke, but she may, by some mishap, get hot. She doesn't drink, although she doesn't mind anyone else's drinking.

Myra will positively be as popular as any girl during the coming-up pledge parties, and will probably get her share of rushing from the University gym classes.

She will be installed in Jacobs Hall. She is a drinking fountain.

THE KEYHOLE

The Sig Chi pledges will have a plenty hard time getting dates from now on . . . this idea of having the pledges come without their makeup sorta put them on the spot . . . The Phi Dels and Pi O's are trying to do them one better . . . the whole idea seems to be to force the yearlings to appear about twenty years behind the parade . . . If it were in a spirit of seriousness instead of jest it might be commended. My suggestion to the sorority actives would be to make certain pledges abstain from the use of peroxide . . . they would probably stay home instead of coming to school . . . The fraternities might ask their pledges to wear garters, hats and red flannels . . . Amrine says that olives are like kisses . . . you have to try them to find out if you like them . . . Tinkham is wondering if she made a hit with O'Brien Friday nite . . . Have you noticed how downcast Hesler has been lately . . . It's all due to a little misunderstanding he had with his one and only . . . at least she was his one and only . . . from now on this steady business is out with him . . . "Tiny" Ryan is sorta gone on a Kappa pledge by the name of Anthes . . . he is hoping she will ask him to the dance tonite . . . I wonder how Ray Larson liked his date Monday nite . . . he seems to be all Pi O now . . . Be good; be careful, and if you can't be careful—well, I'll see you tonite in the gym

Extension News

The Omaha Council of Churches has secured Professor V. H. Vartanian to offer a course in their Standard Leadership Training School, conducted in the First Christian church.

In the first hour, which was held on Monday, October 15, one hundred and fifty students registered in Dr. Vartanian's class. Other teachers on the faculty include: Dr. Forrest L. Knapp of Chicago, the general secretary of the International Council of Religious Education; Isra Duncan, the state representative for Nebraska of the Baptist denomination, and others.

Arrangements have been made through the extension department to offer one university credit for those who comply with the registration requirements.

MISS OLARA STAPP WEDS

The marriage of Miss Clara Stapp to Ted C. Tow, an employee of the Land Bank, last Saturday, October 20, was an event of interest to the University group. Miss Stapp is, and will continue to be, secretary to President Seacock. Miss Pearl Schaefer, secretary to Dr. Holt, was her only attendant at the ceremony, held at four o'clock at the First Unitarian church, at which the Rev. Laurence Plank officiated. About twenty intimate friends of the couple attended. A dinner followed at the Fontenelle Hotel for nine of the guests.

OMAHA SET FOR TWO-DAY CELEBRATION

Friday's program will open with a special homecoming assembly in the gym, followed by an afternoon parade through the downtown section, in which organization floats will be exhibited.

A bonfire pep rally will be held at the athletic field at 6 o'clock Friday evening, followed by a parade to League Park, where Omaha and Peru play a special homecoming football game.

The following committees have been appointed to handle details of the homecoming:

Novelties—Elsie Walker, chairman; Morris Fisher and Carson Rogers.

Dance—Virginia Lee Long, chairman; Robert Richardson, Bob Johnson, Minnette Myers, and John Moucha.

Bonfire Rally—Bob Johnson, chairman; Betty Lou Stringer, and Dorothy Anderson.

PRE-MED OFFICES FILLED

Lyman Cook, '37, was elected president of the Pre-medical club at their regular election last Friday. Lawrence, Gridley, '37, will serve as vice-president and Florence Green, '37, as secretary-treasurer. Gus Hershman, '37, is The Gateway correspondent. Miss Nell Ward, instructor in chemistry, is the faculty sponsor.

During the coming school year the Pre-medical club plans to hold two dinners.

Orchestra Elects Officers

At a recent election the members of the student orchestra chose Margaret Bedell, president; Gene Glenn Scudder, vice president and manager, and Helen Hollingsworth, secretary and treasurer.
